AFTER being suppressed for several years

the publication of the Colonial Surgeon's report has been recommenced. A supplement to Saturday's Gazette contained Dr Avers's report for 1882, together with its various annexes, and the public is thus placed in possession of information as to the health and sanitation of the place in which they live-information which no community ought to be without. A tremendous amount of the disease and misery in the world is this ignorance the publication of officia medical reports is a potent factor, opening the ever of the public to evils to be guarded against in the particular localities to which comparative ignorance of the danger which they refer and exposing insanitary-conditions which require rectification. The importance of these documents is generally recognised. and their suppression, except in Hongkong, epidemics which have afflicted neighbouring is a thing unheard of. it reached the slarming total of 1,478; in 1880 and 1881 the number was not much above a thousand, but last year it again rose litan Dock. to 1,215. Dr. Avnessays :- " That this class of cases should be stendily increasing year after year is proof enough that there is something radically wrong somewhere, and Mr. CHADWICE's and my own reports of the state of the Chinese houses in this city give sufficient evidence that there is every reason to believe much of it is caused by the foul and unwholesome state of these dwellings." At last, however, somothing is to be done to remedy the defective annitation of the Colony. The various suggestions recommended by Mr. CHADWICK are to be carried out at an estimated total cost of $1,000,000. The amount is a considerable one, but the object to be attained amply justifies the expenditure. one of Mr. Price's letters laid on the table at the recent meeting of the Legislative Council [632] we are informed that a portion of the sanitary plant for which he requisitioned is intended to be employed in the drainage and sewerage of certain native tenements or groups of tenements which will be set up as models to the rest of the Chinese houses in the town. Whether the setting up of these models would of themselves have much effect doubtful, but an improvement in the construction of Chinese tenements is urgently required and no time ought to be lost in bringing the proposed new Building Ordinance forward. Mr. CHADWICK, in his report, after referring to the etyle of Chinese dwellings in Hongkong and their overcrowding, says -"The type of house in Hongkong is quite different from that in use on the neighbouring mainland, and I am certain that the lower class papulation is more densely packed together in Hongkong, and worse provided with appliances for cleanliness than they are in Canton." Commenting on this, Dr. Avres points out that the evil has of late years become more accentuated by the increase in the number of storeys in Chinese houses, the houses now being built three or four storeys high, instead of two as formerly, and each storey is subdivided by cocklofts. Mr. CHADWICK says :- "Instances are to Correspondents are requested to forward their name | found where the outer wall of one property and address with communications addressed to the is built so close to that of the adjacent house as to leave an inaccessible anace between them which serves as an open drain. In one case the space between two houses was but 8 inches wide, and it received the flith from windows of cook houses looking into (Cleverly Street)." Referring to other bouses he says :- "The slops from the its luminosity in the dark. For the same reason the house drain also is frequently obstructed." "These," says Dr. Ayres, "among the numerous other defects in these buildings, are what for years the Surveyor-General and myself have been protesting against, and which in deflance of our protest Chinese caused by ignorance. The others had entered no his recognisances would be estreated, and the defence; one of them, Yu Tak Fai, appeared as a witness for the plaintiff, while the third put in no appearance at all. The only serious question was whether Lenng Man Yn was a member of the firm and therefore a purty to the contract. He did not think it could be disputed that there had been a breach of the charter party. Mr. Francia proceeded to read the plaintiff's petition, which elaborately set out the facts he had stated and further showed that the charter party was for six months, the ship to go to any part of the world where she could go with safety, carrying any lawful kind of cargo, and the price to be paid for her hire was $7,500 per month. The contract came into on the 27th May, 1882, on which day the steamer was placed at the disposal of the Tak Hing-Loong, who took her and employed her for three months and two days: but after the expiration of that time they refused to employ the steamer any longer or to carry out the remaining portion of their charter party, or to pay for the hireofthesame. The plaintiff then endeavoured to obtain employment for the steamer in these waters, and not being successful, he went seeking to Calcutta, where he obtained a charter for Sydney and Melbourne at the best rate available. In consequence of the breach of the charter party the Plaintiff had lost $20,000, and he prayed that an inquiry might be made by the court, the amount of his injury ascertained, and the defendants directed to pay for whatever loss it might be found he had sustained. In the answer to the petition. Leong Man Yu denied everything. He denied that he was carrying on trade with or that he signed or authorised anyone to sign on his behalf a charter party as alleged. The other

> Mr. Francis said the plaintiff took his steamer away after giving the Tak Hing Loong notice that he would do so. There could be no question that there was no such option in the obsrter party as stated by Messrs. Sharp, Toller and Johnson. This case was almost entirely against Leung Man Yu. and by the evidence of Yu Tak Fai he would show that Loung Man Yu had been a partner, he had been acting as the charterer of the steamer, and by other evidence he should show that the plaintiff and Mesers. Arnhold Karberg & Co. had always dealt with him. Mr. Francis proceeded to read the evidence of the plaintiff, which had been taken on oath before the Registrar of the Court before his departure. stronger in will than he appears to be in body. The place where the man died is in a blind alley running off one of the narrow and filthy streets end of the alley, and had his writing materials and everything ready, with all his petty officials and retainers in attendance to proceed with the inquest. The body was laid out on a mat on the ground in front of the table, and near it knelt the mistress of the deceased, with her hair dishevelled; and she had several other female friends to assist her in a howling chorus, while half a dozen or more of the boon companions of the deceased were in the rear, and doing their best to add to the general uproar. The rest of the ed with a growd of three hundred loafers, thieves, and vagabonds who had come to Finigan's wake. The Marine Sub-Prefect when he sat down in the blind alley had little idea how long he was to be kept there. Mr. Chen, of the Mixed Court, who also ranks as a Sub-Prefect, came there to "quell the disturbance and preserve order" as he would call it in a proclamation; but between the two Sub-Prefects and their feebleness in allowing a mob to take complete control over them, they were very near causing a serious rict. The Marine Sub-Prefect wished to have Si-youg. the detective, called before him, as he had no doubt been told by the friends of the deceased man; although there is not the slightest ground for such an accusation: death believed to have resulted from cholers. A message was sent to the Central Police Station that Si-yang was wanted at the inquest, but his attendance was refused. Chen then came with all his retinue, and said that the Marine Sub-Prefect could not finish the inquest unless Si-yung was taken before the body of the deceased. During the afternoon and evening Mr. Chen made no less than four visits to the Police Station; and Mr. Penfold, acting on special instructions from the Municipal Council, declined to give up Si-rang. It was known that the loafers and ruffians who had congregated in the streets near where the Coroner was sitting. were determined to kill the detective, and the mandaring themselves know they were powerless to prevent the mob doing anything they liked. Mr. Penfold, Superintendent of Police, said to Mr. Chanthat if he wave a guarantee that Si-yung would be returned safely to the Police Station, he might be allowed to take him: but Mr. Chen said he could secure that he would take him there all right, but he would not secure that he would he branght hank Messengers same to the Police Station repeatedly after nine o'clok. saviug that the Marine Sub-Prefect was still sitting, waiting for Si-yung, and that he could not go home until he finished the inquest. It was reported that the mob of losfers and thieres were still clamouring for the production of Si-yung, and they refused to allow the Marine Sub-Profect to come out of the alley. It was deemed expedient that the police should not go near the place else it would only bring the disturbance to a head and a serious fight would ensue. Native policemen in plain clothes were conssionally sent to see how affairs were going on, and they reported that the mob was very violent. One of our staff, in company with another gentleman, left the Police Station about 10.45, after having been there for some hours waiting something to turn up," and sudes roured to find out where the extraordinary inquest was being held. The soone of the inquest was at last reached. After going through several small with greasy citizens, we at last found our way to an alley where the remnants of the growd of losfers were dispersing. The Marine Sub-Prefeet had also gone home, after being there from 430 until 11 p.m. On reaching the Police Station at 11.15, we found Mesers: Holliday and Kalb, of the Watch Committee in consultation with the Superintendent of Police, and we reported that the mandarins had gone home and all was quiet for the night.

Si-yung. It appears, was afterwards removed from the Tactai's Yamen to that of the Chehsien's, where he was kept in obains, and he was still there on the 20th, the date of the latest papers received. The Chairman of the Municipal Council on the 17th addressed Judge Denny, as Sesior Consul, on the subject, requesting him to communicate with the Tuotai and demand the return of the man to the care of the Municipal Police until he could be put upon his trial in the Settlement for the offence with which he was charged. Judge Denny thereupon wrote to the Shanghal with M. Tricon, was told by the mid-Taotai, and in the meantime convened a meeting dlemen, (or as you call them go-betweens.) Hao of the Consular Body, at which nearly all the members were present and the opinion was unanimous that grave mistakes had been committed. and to far-as possible the Body would make waking up as he did to the ture state of things every effort to correct them. Judge Donny was requested to pay an official visit to the Taotsi, which he did, and the subject was discussed between thom, but no definite understanding was arrived at. On his return Judge Denny wrote, a disputch to the Taotai, pointing out the errors which had been committed. To this the Tactai at once replied, suggesting that the matter should be left over until the return of the District Magistrate, whose duty it would be to try the case. Municipal Council still pressed for that course, on their giving a guarantee that the man would be produced on a day to be appointed for the joint investigation by the District Magistrate and the Consular Officer. The Municipal Council Superintendent Penfold with a body of police went into the city on the evening of the 19th to claim the person of the accused. On arrival runners reported that there were thousands of men waiting outside the city gates. Finally the expedition had to return unsuccessful. The scare as to mobs waiting outside the city gates turned out to be without any real foundation. The affair has created great excitement and indignation in the Settlement, and Mr. Scott's action in the first instance has been severely anim. adverted on. Mr. Drummond addresses a letter to the N. C. Daily News with the object of fixing the responsibility upon the Municipal Council, who, he argues, ought to have been represented when the man was first brought before Chen and the Assessor. In the course of his letter he says :-"The importance of this incident can only be properly measured by a consideration of the present state of local politics. Six months ago peace and a fair amount of goodwill existed now, matters are, to say the least, much strained between the Council and the local authorities; the zeal of the foreign police is probably a much reduced quantity; the native police must live in fear and trembling; the mob is truculent and threatening, and daily more daring; we have been made familiar with those impolitio public notices about what constitutes the alarm signal;

THE FLOODS ON THE YELLOW RIVER. CHI-NAN FU. 3rd July. When I promised you are account of the Yellow River ficed, I did not know I should be able to make my word good so soon as this. The probabilities of a flood were based upon our hope of the summer rains, and the ineffectual efforts of the officials working upon the River. The officials have no doubt planned well and worked hard, and more work has really been done than I thought; but the summer rains have not come, and the River has been exceedingly low. Notwithstanding all this I have now to report a flood, with a break or breaks in the River banks that have already proved serious and the danger is not over. On the 24th and 25th of June the River, which was so very low a few days before, was reported full and overflowing. I did not believe it, but I soon had painful evidence of the fact Near Lo-k'ou, five English miles from this city, occurred the first serious break that I heard of but I soon heard of several both above and below. The country was rapidly flooded. The break here was on the south side; now I hear of the country north of the river being flooded, though it is difficult to get exact information yet. One morning, four days after the break, I went out to see for myself. I tried to get to the river or Henry Ward Beecher observes that "when $5 houses that were threstened. H.E. Li Hung-chang took over yesterday, at 8 s.m., the seals of his office as Pai Yan Ta Ching. &c., or Grand Secretary. Since H.E.'s return here he has been very depressed, and will hardly receive any one. It is attributed by Chinese to H. E. receiving some not very good news from head quorters and that his call to Peking so far is cancelled. It appears, as the Chinese report here, that Li Hung-chang whilst negotiating in Pan (easily arranged), which each of them depended upon, at least Li depended upon it, and reported such to Peking; therefore H.E. H.E. Chang is sick, and applies for leave to retire. He is anxious to get back to Canton as Governor-General. It goes against him to be supernumerary here under Li Hung-chang, but he does not care to say so to H.E. Li. Li Hung-chang also refuses to accept the Governor-Generalship; he pleads because of his mother's death. Tseng Kwo chu'au is summoned to Peking.
